1:00pm	Demystifying the media interview (Willing) Does the thought of an interview with media overwhelm you? This session will walk you through a typical interview scenario to show you how to prepare for both the expected and unexpected when dealing with different aspects of media. Interactive discussions will guide you in preparing yourself to tell your story while making sure to capture all of the key messages needed in the academic research environment. Join us and communication experts to learn the do’s & don’ts and key take away messages that will help you be ready for your 15 minutes of fame.		First impressions are critical: Crafting your lay abstract (Lalone) Have you ever wondered what make some grants more successful than others? Your mother was right, first impressions are very important. Join us in this interactive session that will use real world scenarios to help you understand the art of crafting a compelling and effective lay abstract. Diverse experts will work with you and share techniques to develop a winning abstract in this 90 min session. Western experts will provide feedback and anecdotal examples of “the good the bad and the ugly”, all to help you best describe your science in lay terms with a hook.
2:30 pm	Break
3:00pm (90min)	Building an Action Plan for BJI Research Interest Groups An interactive session for BJI members to share their perspective around grand challenges related to the BJI Themes (Spine, Trauma & Arthritis). Members will work together to 1) describe complex problems and how they can be studied 2) identify unique strengths/champions/key players available at BJI and 3) define next steps to accelerate specific research innovation and success at BJI.
