Experiences and Learnings from Building a Research Program in Indigenous Arthritis Conditions

Join us for this Workshop hosted by BJI's
Get Everyone Started – Indigenous Training Initiative (GET'S-IT) Program

Cheryl Barnabe

Cheryl Barnabe is a Métis rheumatologist with a graduate degree in Clinical Epidemiology and an Associate Professor in the Departments of Medicine and Community Health Sciences, Cumming School of Medicine, University of Calgary. She is the Chair of the Quality Care Committee for the Canadian Rheumatology Association and is a member of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada Indigenous Health Advisory Committee.

During this workshop, Cheryl will share information about how to build an authentic Indigenous Research Program with meaningful research partnerships between Indigenous and Non-Indigenous collaborators. She will describe some of her research projects to highlight key principles, participatory and community-based research approaches, and the importance of knowledge translation for policy impact. Participants will be encouraged to reflect and share during facilitated breakout sessions focused on how individuals can Take Action as they explore their own personal research interest.
